ENVIRONMENTAL SUPPORT FOR PRINTERS

In response to requests from a fast growing client base, Saxon Recycling has created an Environmental Support Team for printers who are coming under pressure from the ever increasing demands of Environmental and Health & Safety Regulations.

Having achieved ISO 9001, ISO 14001 and Investors in People certification we are now ideally placed to make recycling more effective in your business and to provide advice that may help you avoid the heavy penalties imposed by non-compliance.

Saxon's Environmental Support Team, headed by our Technical Director, will undertake, at no cost to contracted clients, an on-site survey to assess the storage, handling, processing and disposal of Hazardous Waste materials within your business. Within seven days we will provide you with a report with possible recommendations to ensure you are compliant with the Regulations. The report will also suggest ways of maximising the recycling opportunities from waste materials.

Saxon Recycling can also offer advice on the necessary procedures to progress your own ISO 14001 certification based on our success in gaining this standard.

With pressures on the one hand from the Authorities with severe penalties for non-compliance and on the other from your clients to prove your environmental credentials, our Support Team will work in partnership with you, taking ownership of your problems whilst respecting your commercial needs and environmental concerns.

Let us help you clear the mess!

Accidents do happen in the best of organisations but now Saxon can supply you not only a kit to contain any spillages but also a procedure for dealing with the incident that should be accepted by your Health & Safety Officer.

The spill kit consists of absorbent booms for containing the spillage, mats to soak up the liquid and protective rubber gloves and mask for your operatives' personal safety. All this is contained within a convenient pack together with the procedures to be followed. We even provide heavy duty plastic bags in the kit into which you can place the soiled material to be collected later by Saxon Recycling for disposal.

You should be prepared for the worst and the best preparation is to have an action plan for when the worst does happen. With the Saxon Spill Kit it's all there for you.
